Dear Sire,

So it was "on Soviet prisoners, on Polish slave labor" that the Nazis did their experimenting, as I read in Richard Lehnerz's article in today's paper.

In believing that 6,000,000 Jews were among "those endless stacks of corpses", nox doubt I was the victim of more of that propaganda by the (non-existent) Elders of Zion.

In this article I also find the best possible precedent for "public health" medicine to be in the hands of the Army: the Nazis did it.

If this was good enough for them, should it not be good enough for us — the one major power to refuse to sign the international convention against chemical warfare?

Sincerely,

Harold Eisberg
